Unraveling the Complexities of the Illicit Trade

Coming to America

Human trafficking occurs on all continents, with evidence. The U.S. began reporting it in earnest in 2000. The first subjects of the 2007 Act brought the issue from a 2003-2004 focus.

Which countries are in compliance?

-  Countries that fully comply with minimum standards set out in U.S. law
-  Countries that do not fully comply with the minimum standards, but are making significant efforts to bring their laws into compliance
-  Countries making significant efforts, but have large numbers of trafficking victims, provided no evidence of increased anti-trafficking efforts over the last year or will need to take additional steps in the coming year to meet their commitments
-  Countries that do not fully comply with the standards, but are making no efforts to do so
-  The 100 fully compliant countries are marked as "Special Cases" because those countries have agreed to nonstandard criteria
